REDS AGREE TO ARRANGE ARMISTICE WITH POLES

Issue Orders Suspending Hostilities, Pending Pour-Parlers

Poland, On Advice Of Allies, Makes Offer Of Peace

MILLERAND TALKS

Intimates That France Warned Little Nation Not To Fight

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 25.—The Soviet Government has given orders to the supreme command of the Bolshevik Army to suspend military operations and to discuss armistice terms with the Polish command.

A communique, issued by the Polish General Staff yesterday, announces that, after violent fighting, Polish detachments have re-occupied the Grodno forts on the south bank of the Niemen; and that the Bolsheviks have evacuated the town, leaving two heavy guns and many prisoners in the hands of the Poles.

POLAND WILLING

London, July 23.—Poland has despatched notes to Moscow and to the Soviet army headquarters, formally applying for an armistice, with a view to peace.

RUSSIA AGREES

Paris, July 24.—A Moscow wireless message states that the Russian Soviet Government has given orders to the Supreme Command of the Red Army immediately to begin pourparlers with the Polish Military Command, with a view to the conclusion of an armistice and in preparation for future peace between the two parties.

FRANCE EXPLAINS

Paris, July 24.—The Premier, M. Millerand, explained in the Senate yesterday the reasons for which the British and French Governments had sent their missions to Poland. In the course of his speech M. Millerand said:

"The French Government has not waited until today to send Poland useful advice and warning. I have a letter here which I shall take good care not to read to the Senate. It is not the time to reproach Poland.

"Our Allies today expect other things from us and I given them the assurance that they will not wait in vain."

"REDS" IN POLAND

London, July 23.—The Bolsheviks have now invaded Poland proper.

The War Office reports that the Bolshevist right wing has occupied Slonim, a town northwest of Grodno and about 30 miles east of the German frontier.

The Bolshevists are reported to have captured Grodno and also Bielostok.

The Bolshevist center line bends back considerably towards the east but in the south the Bolshevists have forced the passage of the rivers Styr and Zbrucz and have entered East Galicia.

ADMIT DEFEATS

Later—Reuter's Warsaw correspondent telegraphs that a Polish communique issued yesterday confirms the reports of the evacuation of Grodno, and also of Slonim, by the Poles.

The communique adds that the Bolsheviks have crossed the river Niemen.

JAP OFFICERS TOLD TO QUIT CHINESE POSTS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 24.—A statement issued by the War Office today says that the Japanese officers engaged in training the troops of the Chinese Frontier Defense Force have been instructed temporarily to resign and the training office is now completely closed.

"This," the statement adds, "clearly manifests the strict neutrality maintained by Japan in the present circumstances, and leaves no room for suspicion of the Japanese."

Benson Delays Operation Of New U.S. Shipping Act Until January; Tells Why

Head Of Shipping Board Says Objections Should Be Investigated—Japan May Join England In Firm Protest—Possible Reprisals

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 24.—Admiral Benson, chairman of the Shipping Board, announced today that the operation of the section of the new Merchant Marine Act, providing for preferential railway rates on exports, sent to the seaboard for shipment in American bottoms, would be suspended from July until January 1, 1921.

He declared that this interval was necessary for the investigation of objections which had been raised to the application of certain provisions of the Act.

Admiral Benson explained that he had learned that foreign steamship companies had objected to the preferential rail-rates provision; and that this would probably be made the basis of diplomatic conversations between America and other governments.

ANGLO-JAP PROTEST?

(Japan Advertiser)

Immediate action against the United States Shipping Bill is urged by Mr Motojiro Shiraishi, well known Japanese publicist and business man, in an interview given recently. Mr. Shiraishi charges the Japanese Diet with neglecting an important issue; he condemns the action of the American government as acting in "contravention of international good will;" and, finally, demands the formulation of a definite shipping policy on the part of the Japanese Empire.

"The new shipping law of America," said Mr. Shiraishi, in the course of his interview, "will effect two countries in a vital way. Great Britain will be injured in the Atlantic trade and Japan will suffer in the Pacific. In Japan the people seem disinterested, disclined to take any steps to meet the issue which is a most serious one.

"The inaction in the Diet may be due to the fact that the nation is too busy with domestic and diplomatic questions to turn its attention to other problems. But it is also due to the lack of any definite shipping policy on the part of the government."

NEED ENGLAND'S HELP

After some discussion of the manner in which the new law will affect the shipping of Great Britain, Mr. Shiraishi calls for a union between the interests of Japan and those of Great Britain in an attack on the bill. Japan, he points out, will find herself at a disadvantage fighting the new law alone, while co-operation with Great Britain would give a fight some possibility of success.

"For this purpose," says Mr. Shiraishi, "subsidised companies of this country should be given greater freedom in their activities so that they can take part in various co-operative arrangements without stint.

"The present regulations, however, impose various restrictions on the subsidised companies, whose activities are already greatly restricted simply because they receive small subsidies from the Government. It is impossible for them to join even in a freight conference without permission

JAPANESE MUST OVERRUN KOREA —GEN. KOJIMA

Folly, Says Returned Officer, To Attempt Suppression There By Force

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 24.—Lieut. General Sojiro Kojima, who formerly commanded the military police in Korea, has left for Nikolaievsk to take command of the Japanese garrison there.

Interviewed at Moji before leaving, General Kojima said that Korea was "like a hysterical woman, emboldened by gentleness but driven mad by severity.

PRODUCE ASSIMILATION

"The only possible means of pacifying Korea," he declared, "is for a sufficient number of Japanese to migrate to produce a natural assimilation of the two peoples.

"There are now only 350,000 Japanese in Korea, too few to undertake assimilation.

"Undoubtedly unrest does prevail in Korea, but this is a general post-war tendency the world over.

"It would be the height of folly to attempt suppression by force, as if the aspirations of Koreans were peculiar to them alone."

MAINTAIN NAVY DESPITE COST, BEATTY URGES

British Fleet Admiral Says Organisation Is Now At Minimum

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 24.—In the course of a speech on receiving the freedom of the borough of Huddersfield today, Admiral of the Fleet Earl Beatty said that the British Navy of today, both in commission and reserve, was the minimum compatible with the safety of the Empire.

The Navy's policy regarding construction, he said, had been to investigate the problems of the war and co-ordinate all its lessons; so that, when the time came—as it must come—for them to put those lessons to a useful purpose, they should be applied with wisdom and understanding.

The best brains in the service, Lord Beatty added, were being devoted to maintaining the Navy in such conditions that it would continue to form the principal bulwark of the Empire against aggression.

NO CHANCE OF COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE FOR IRELAND

Lloyd George So Advises Trade Unionists In Critical Caucus

IS PESSIMISTIC

Premier Says Worst Is Yet To Come; Much Sterner Times

"ACT QUICKLY!"

Thomas, In Reply, Urges Britain To Negotiate With Irish Unions

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 24.—A deputation of the Trade Union Congress called on the Prime Minister today to present the resolutions of the Congress on the subject of Ireland.

The official report of the proceedings states that Mr. Lloyd George, replying to the spokesman of the deputation, Mr. J. H. Thomas, said that Labor's scheme of Home Rule was "truncated Dominion Home Rule."

NO AUTHORITY

It was idle to discuss such a matter, the Premier is quoted as saying, except with somebody who was able to deliver the goods, which the deputation was not. He saw no sign that Sinn Fein was prepared to discuss anything except absolute independence, which could not be discussed.

Mr. Thomas declared that a bridge between the two extremes of Irish opinion could be found through the parliamentary committee of the Trade-Union Congress, and the Irish parliamentary committee.

"WILL GROW WORSE"

Mr. Lloyd George replied:

"You may know more than I do. I am convinced that things on the other side are going to become very much worse; very much sterner. We cannot allow this to go on. Therefore, anybody who is anxious for peace must act quickly."

Mr. Thomas, after further discussion, said that they would again get into touch with the Irish Trade-Union Congress. He appealed to the Government not to make the mistake of ignoring that body as unrepresentative.

If the Government made a deal with the Irish Labor party, Mr. Thomas, asserted, it would solve the problem.

"RECOGNISE RUSSIA!"

On the subject of Poland, Mr. Thomas demanded frank recognition of the Russian Government and asked whether the British Government was prepared to enter into negotiations with Russia, immediately.

Mr. Lloyd George said:

"No. We invite them here to discuss, first of all, peace with Eastern Europe. Once such discussions begin, they are very apt to end in clearing up all misunderstandings."

SPENDER IN COMMAND

London, July 23.—Sir Edward Carson has sent a message to Belfast expressing the earnest hope that all Unionists there will assist the authorities to quell the disturbances and restore peace.

It was announced from the Old Town Hall at Belfast today that Lieut. Colonel W. B. Spender, former chief staff officer of the Ulster Volunteer Force, has taken over command, and that all loyalists were requested to report to their respective battalions.

BELFAST RIOTING

London, July 23.—The rioting at Belfast continued until three o'clock this morning, when order was restored. Ten persons were killed last night, bringing the deathroll since the riots started on Wednesday up to thirteen. The wounded number from two to three hundred.

Uchida Address Peers On Chinese Situation

(U. S. Consular Radio)

Tokio, July 23.—Foreign Minister Uchida in a statement before the House of Peers today let it be known that Japan is following with interest developments in the strife that has arisen between the Chihli and Anfu factions in China and he declared that Japan is prepared to act in accordance with whatever developments may be brought about.

Minister Uchida said that it may become necessary to hold all of the parties of the House at Tokio to discuss conditions in China, but he added that he does not fear that civil war will spread throughout all the northern provinces of China.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 24.—Mr. Shimada, the Opposition leader, and Mr. Taketomi, the ex-Minister of Finance, on behalf of forty-one Kenseikai members, yesterday presented a written interpellation to the House of Representatives, alleging that the Minister of Finance, Baron Takahashi; the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Yamamoto; and the Minister of Education, Mr. Nakahashi, had wrongfully utilised official information for their personal interests on the stock market.

The interpellation states that the charges, which have already been made in the House, demand more than denials by the Ministers involved, the acceptance of which would be tantamount to acquitting a man before a judge on his personal plea of "not guilty."

SAW SLUMP COMING

The Opposition leaders describe the attitude of the Seiyukai as irrational, in support of which they quote a report by a commerical news agency at Kobe, comparing the amounts of stocks held by the Ministers in the names of their sons and wives, in the latter part of 1919, and the amounts held on May, 1920, which is alleged to prove that the Ministers, foreseeing the financial slump, sold out.

The interpellation states that the grave suspicion against the Ministers, if unremoved, may crystallise into national belief in their guilt, and may even culminate in national

FRANCO-BRITISH OIL AGREEMENT TEXT ANNOUNCED

Will Support Their Respective Nationals In All Oil-Producing Countries

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 23.—The text of the Franco-British oil agreement has been published.

The agreement provides that, in Rumania, the two governments will support their respective nationals with a view to the acquisition of the former German oil interests and other concessions, all shares in the former being half French and half British.

In Russia the two governments will support their respective nationals in acquiring concessions.

In Mesopotamia France is to receive 25 percent of the government output at market rates, or 25 percent of the shares in private companies.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS

The agreement also provides for the construction of pipe-lines and railways for the transportation of oil through the French sphere to the Mediterranean.

In North Africa and other French Colonies, France will give facilities to French and British groups, Great Britain giving corresponding advantages in the British Crown Colonies.

FRENCH REPORT

Paris, July 24.—The official text of the agreement with regard to petroleum, signed by M. Millerand and Mr. Lloyd George at San Remo on April 24, 1920, has now been published. Article 2 of the agreement provides for the establishment of cordial co-operation on the principle of reciprocity in all countries where the petroleum interests of the two countries can be practically combined; namely, in Rumania, Asia Minor, territory of the former Russian Empire, Galicia and the French and British colonies.

Lincoln, Neb., July 23.—Mr. Bryan having declined nomination by the Prohibitionist Party as presidential candidate, the "dry" Convention has nominated Professor Aaron S. Watkins, of Ohio, who has several times stood as candidate for the Vice-presidency.

This makes three presidential candidates from Ohio.

Feisul's Assent To French Terms Now Confirmed

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 23.—It is now confirmed beyond doubt that King Feisul of Syria has accepted the French ultimatum. It is understood that although the French troops are en route for Aleppo, a march towards Damascus does not form part of their program.

There has been no news so far of any conflict between the French and the Syrians.

BAD WEATHER CALLS A HALT ON CUP RACES

(Reuter's Service)

Sandy Hook, July 24.—The fifth race for the America's Cup has been postponed until Monday, owing to heavy weather.

FOURTH WAS THRILLER

Sandy Hook, July 23.—The fourth race for the America's Cup was sailed over a triangular course. Resolute was first across the line and quickly drew ahead, leading by nearly half a mile at the end of half an hour.

The freshening wind enabled Shamrock to cut down the lead and she passed Resolute for the only time three miles from the finish; but half a mile from home. Resolute drew away in a spectacular spurt and won by ten minutes including her time allowance.

LI FACES ANFU AND MONARCHIC TUCHUNS HERE

Special martial law has been proclaimed by Tuchun Li Shun of Kiangsu in his province. This move is taken in view of the defiant attitude taken by the local Defense Commissioner, Ho Fung-lin, as dictated by the Anfu Tuchun of Chekiang, Lu Yung-hsiang, as well as the announcement by certain local organisations that Chang Hsun, monarchist, has been appointed Inspector-General of the Yangtsze Provinces and Tuchun of Anhui.

While the last report still lacks confirmation, the local Commercial Federation has issued a telegram to Peking, protesting against the appointment of the monarchist, on the ground that Chang is a traitor to the republican form of government and is a most contemptible public servant in the eyes of the world.

JAP VISCOUNT FLAYS BUDGET; WARNS NATION TO STUDY IT

Says War-Plan Appropriations Are "Vanity Of Militarism"; Scores Extravagance

TAXES TO BE SEVERE

Declares Outside Preparations Are Not Effective If Empire Isn't Unified

Tokio, July 23.—Viscount Ogochi, militant member of the House of Lords, in a published statement today, declared that Japan's present national-defense plans are "the vanity of militarism," and generally assailed the entire budget scheme.

"There was a time," said the Viscount, "when diplomacy was left to the authorities alone. But that time is past and tonay, there is a new diplomacy which must be the diplomacy of the people in general. And it is with militaristic affairs as it is with diplomacy. National defense must be the concern of the people."

PEOPLE INDIFFERENT

"The converging point of interest in the current session of the Diet ought to be in the national defense scheme," continues the Viscount, "but the people at large seem to be as indifferent towards the question as ever, as if it were a subject concerning the Naval and Military authorities alone. Behind other political subjects lies a notable power of public opinion of late, whereas the national defense scheme alone still remains a monopoly of the military men, whatever political party may be in power. This is certainly a matter that deserves serious public attention, since according to the present Budget estimates, nearly half the national expenditure is to be devoted to the defense scheme and for this purpose alone an increase in taxation is proposed.

"It will be noted that a considerable amount is asked now for the construction of railways throughout the country. As compared with the national defense estimates, however, the railroad plans are as nothing. There are some, again, who take exception to the plans for harbor construction, road improvement or social undertakings because of their comparatively large estimates, but beside the defense scheme, however, these expenses are comparatively limited. But while the national defense scheme is so expensive, yet it is left to the authorities alone.

"Time was when it was believed," concludes the Viscount, "that an increase in the number of troops and of warships meant the consummation of a state's defense scheme, but this is as erroneous as any other old, musty idea. To aim at the augmentation of mere force without any consistent plan of uniting the natural resources of the nation and recognising it as the only means of perfecting the defense scheme is nothing but the vanity of militarism."

EX-BANDIT MAY FIGHT WU PEI-FU AND TSAO

Jealousy Said To Exist Between Fengtien And Chihli Leaders

GATES CLOSED

Capital Tight As Drum When Former Brigands Near The Walls

LITTLE HSU FLEES

Rich Shop District At Chienmen Is Closed; Rice Supply Cut

By Nathaniel Peffer

(Staff Wire to The China Press)

Peking, July 25.—The encircling of Chang Tso-lin's troops round Peking opens a new chapter in the political muddle. Chang now has complete control of the Capital and the final settlement of the crisis lies in his hands.

Tuan Chi-jui, Wu Pei-fu and Tsao Kun are all more or less at his mercy.

The arrival of the Fengtien forces created the greatest panic experienced since the clash between the Anfuites and the Chihlians.

The gates of the city are all closed tight. Ingress and egress are denied even members of the Red Cross Staff, because of the fear of entry by Chang's men, or by the routed soldiers of Tuan from the barracks.

The entry of foodstuffs has again virtually ceased. The streets are half deserted. Shops in the rich mercantile district outside the Chienmen are closed.

The most intense heat for years is being experienced, thus adding to the suffering of the people.

NANKOU LOOTED

Minor lootings are reported in small villages near the Capital. Railway telephone reports from Nankou, on the Peking-Kalgan Railway, say that the place has been looted by the troops of little Hsu.

What Chang Tso-lin is going to do is a riddle, even to the Chinese.

It is unknown yet whether or not he surrounded the city with the consent of General Wu Pei-fu. Neither has it been ascertained whether or not he will eventually fight the rest of the Chihli faction.

LITTLE HSU ESCAPES

The ex-bandit, however, assures the public that his troops will not be allowed to enter the city. All Anfuite leaders are in hiding. It is reported that Little Hsu has finally succeeded in escaping from the city.

BY NATHANIEL PEFFER

(Staff Wire to The China Press)

Peking July 24, (Delayed in transmission).—Troops of Chang Tso-lin, the ex-bandit Tuchun of Fengtien, have reached the Southern outskirts of the capital. The feeling of unrest among the people is growing. Shopkeepers fear looting by the ex-bandits of Chang.

It is also reported that jealousy exists between General Wu Pei-fu and Chang. The former feels that he has fought and Chang is reaping the fruits of his labor.

Chang Hsun, the monarchist, has telegraphed to deny the report that he has any intention of attempting to restore the monarchy.

DISARMING FOES

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 26, (4:15 p.m.).—The Chihli troops are rapidly disarming the Frontier Defense troops around Peking. The question whether this opportunity will be taken to disarm the 13th Division, or whether it will become the regular Presidential bodyguard, has not yet been decided.

The headquarters of the Frontier Defense Force was searched yesterday and many documents seized by the gendarmerie. The Frontier troops' telegraph headquarters have been taken over. The residences of several leading Anfuites were searched yesterday evening but the principal leaders could not be found.

PROTEST CHANG HSUN:

Foreign circles emphasise the extreme undesirability of any official post being given to General Chang Hsun. They state that it would have a very bad effect in foreign countries and in democratic circles throughout China.

Nothing, however, has yet occurred to indicate any such intention on the part of the Chihli leaders.

Wu Ping-hsiang's resignation has been accepted and Yin Hung-show, the assistant commandant of gendarmerie, and former attache to General Tsao Kun, will succeed him as Chief of the metropolitan police.

MARINES AT TUNGCHOW

Peking, July 26.—Ten American marines reached Tungchow yesterday evening and found everything quiet. Six of them are remaining at Tungchow and the other four returned to Peking this morning.

The Chihli troops are now partially surrounding Peking. The 13th Division is co-operating with them and is also guarding the Presidency, thus showing the President's faith in the loyalty of Yuan Shih-kai's old bodyguard, which the Anfuites took out of Peking but hesitated to use in the field.

WU AT RACE-COURSE

General Wu Pei-fu visited the Peking race-course yesterday, where the Chihlites have established local headquarters, and satisfied himself that order was being maintained.

The gates of the city are still closed. It is understood that the motive is principally to prevent the offending Anfuites from fleeing.

CHANG IN TIENTSIN

(Reuter's Service)

Tientsin, July 25 (10 p.m.).—General Chang Tso-lin arrived at Tientsin today.

The Tsangchow correspondent of the Peking and Tientsin Times writes at noon today that the Chihlities, reinforced by two brigades form Paotingfu, attacked General Ma Liang yesterday and drove him back in confusion on Tehchow. The pursuit is progressing. Wounded arrived at Tsangchow this morning, en route for Tientsin.

Mr. G. B. Campbell, the Tehchow representative of the Standard Oil Company, related, in an interview, an adventurous trip through the lines from Tehchow to Tsangchow.

ASSURED FOREIGNERS

He said that General Ma Liang called upon Dr. Tucker, head of the American Mission at Tehchow, whose compound was crowded with refugees, and assured him that he had nothing to fear.

Mr. Campbell said that Sangyuan was systematically looted by the Anfuites, the shops being swept clean of valuables and all portable objects, while the inhabitants were relieved of their cash.

Lienchen was similarly looted by Chihlite deserters; who, roaming all over the country, are a serious menace to the population.

Cavalry has been sent out to round these troops up.

PEKING ENCOMPASSED

Peking, July 25.—Peking is almost entirely surrounded by General Chang Tso-lin's soldiers who are disarming the Anfuites. Chang Tso-lin has instructed his men to remain outside Peking.

Looting is reported to have been perpetrated yesterday by roaming bands of Anfuites on the outskirts of the city, beyond the areas patrolled by the military police.

The missionaries at Tungchow have asked for protection, which the situation there apparently does not demand so far.

Chun Yun-peng, who is at Mukden interviewing Chang Tso-lin, has not yet reported to the Government.

MINISTERS RESIGN

Mandates were issued yesterday accepting the resignations of the Ministers of Finance, Justice and Communications; also that of the Vice-Minister of Justice.

The Vice-Minister of Communications has disappeared. Tien Wen-lieh, Minister of the Interior, will act concurrently as Minister of Communications.

KEEP ONE ANFUITE

Among the crowd of Anfu officials who are marked down for removal, no mention has been made of the Director-General of Telegraphs, a prominent member of the Anfu Club who allowed a gang of Anfu militarists to invade the Peking telegraph office and ruthlessly censor news unfavorable to the Anfu cause.

The circumstances of the surrender of General Chu Tung-feng are interesting, though not nearly so picturesque as at first reported.

After the demoralisation of the 1st Frontier division, General Chu Tung-feng sent a Chinese priest to inform General Wu Pei-fu that he wished to surrender.

WAITED FOR HIM

Two of Wu Pei-fu's staff officers accompanied the priest to the front line, where they awaited the arrival of Chu Tung-feng, who was subsequently sent to Paotingfu.

The Government has despatched Hsu En-pei to Europe and America in connection with Consortium affairs.

With the downfall of the Anfu Club, a majority of the members of the Government is now in favor of the Consortium; and, as the Government intends to carry out the disbandment of superfluous soldiery as quickly as possible, the prospects of a Consortium loan, so far as China is concerned, have been vastly improved by the downfall of the party which hitherto had been mainly instrumental in blocking the Consortium plans.

KEEP GATES CLOSED

Peking, July 24 (3:45 p.m.).—The Frontier troops, whose arrival at Tungchow caused the closing of the gates of the city, have been effectively kept out by General Chang Kwei-ti, who subsequently returned to Peking.

General Chang Tso-lin's officers state that the reason for his coming to Peking is to secure the complete disarming of the Frontier Force.

EVEN WU FAVORS TUAN

Even General Wu Pei-fu, for whose head Marshal Tuan recently offered a large reward, is adopting the common attitude of a student towards his teacher; but Tuan's numerous former pupils are unable to sway public opinion, which considers that he has been disgraced and defeated and should be allowed to go into complete retirement.

The whereabouts of General Hsu Shu-tseng and Tseng Yu-chin are not known. Today they are reported to have fled northward along the old postal road, with the object of escaping from the country via Changchun.

BEGIN TO ARRIVE

Peking, July 24 (3:20 p.m.).—General Chang Tso-lin's troops began to arrive at Nanyuan yesterday evening. By 8 o'clock this morning two brigades of the 27th Division had reached Nanyuan, taking over the quarters of the 15th Division, while two Fengtien regiments from Honan camped on the race course last night.

On the arrival of the Chihli troops at Nanyuan, orders were given to disarm one brigade of the 15th Division, to which arms had been recently restored.

ONE MAN REVOLTS

During the disarming one soldier refused to hand over his rifles. After an altercation he shot and killed his officer. An uproar ensued and firing occurred, which was quickly quelled. The offending soldier was shot by officers.

The evacuation of the 15th Division and a portion of the 9th Division from Nanyuan has now been completed.

Generals Chang Hwai-chi and Wu Ping-hsiang are arranging for the location of the incoming troops, sending the Anfu troops temporarily to Peiyuan. The city gates were closed this morning, pending the settling down of the troops.

There are many indications that General Chang Tso-lin and other Chihli leaders are coming to Peking to arrange for a final settlement.

SPECIAL MANDATE

Peking, July 23 (delayed).—A mandate has been issued, appointing General Wang Huai-ching director of a special department to collect straggling soldiers and to place them again under discipline.

The Tungchow gates were closed today, owing to the arrival of bands of Anfu soldiers who had fled from the Western front.

There have been several instances of Anfu troops forcibly taking food from the shops, which were refusing to supply food without payment, but the behavior of these demoralised troops on the whole is not bad.

CHEN CAPITULATES

General Chen Wen-yun has retained control of the remnants of the Third Frontier Division, and has informed the Ministry of War that he and his men are willing to place themselves under the control of the Ministry.

The disbandment of superfluous troops is being discussed in Government circles, as it is thought that the present is the most favorable moment to begin with the Anfuites.

Chu Shen, the Minister of Justice, resigned today.

It is understood that the Ministers of Communications and Finance are hurriedly endeavoring to place their accounts of the Ministries in such a condition as will enable them to hand over their portfolios and retire at the earliest opportunity.

It is reported that Wang I-tang will leave shortly for Tokio.

AWAITING CHANG

Peking, July 23 (delayed).—Chin Yung-peng left for Shanhaikwan yesterday evening to meet General Chang Tso-lin. It is understood that General Tsao Kun declines to discuss the surrender of the Anfu forces until the arrive of General Chang Tso-lin.

It is believed that General Chang does not desire an official post at Peking, preferring to remain at Mukden.

Whatta waste! Whatta waste! The unusual methods employed by Boston policemen in the destruction of hundreds of cases of rare wines, whiskey and champagne tore the heart-strings of a host of mourners who flocked to Station House No. 16 to witness the proceedings. The coppers just took bottle after bottle and hurled them against the wall. The valuable stock was seized in raids.

Obituary

MR. R. A. BRAND

The sad news of the death of Mr. Robert Arthur Brand, which occurred in Yokohama on Saturday, was received here yesterday. It is understood that he was suddenly taken with cramps or heart failure while bathing.

"Bobbie" Brand, as he was popularly known, was only 27 years old. He was born in London on December 5, 1893. He was educated at the public schools in Shanghai, and completed his college courses at Clifton College.

With the exception of the period of his war services, he had been engaged by the Union Insurance Co., at Hongkong, and was only recently transferred to Yokohama.

Mr. Brand is survived by his mother, his brothers, J. K. and David, and his sisters, all residents of Shanghai.

"Bobbie" was known in Shanghai and Hongkong as the best type of sportsman, being a splendid player of cricket, tennis and golf. Many friends will mourn his demise.

The Quaints

To another excellent house assembled at the Lyceum, the delightful band of Quaints played a new program last night and pleased everyone. Their popularity is secured; so much so that, at times, they were able to take liberties with it. But on this point—not another word.

"Two Pairs and a Joker" make quite a good hand in poker, and so did the little skit, so-called, which provided most of the second part of the entertainment.

Miss Ella Cameron had lots of work to do last night, but it was not nearly enough for the audience. She has a freshness about her movements, and an abandon in her manner, that carries you into the airy nothingness that makes dance a delight.

Quite one of the hits of the evening was the splendid character dance by Miss Cameron and Mr. Scovell. Appearing as a couple of scarecrows, they wandered through the most complexing mazes and mystified as well as entertained the house.

There were any amount of concerted numbers, and they were all finely sung; but the gem of them all was the real British song which called down the curtain for part one.

A dainty trio by Miss Dorothy James and Messrs. Scovell and Doncaster got a vigorous encore and and loud demands for "Madam, will You Walk."

A nice little number with witty words, a melodious tune and excellent business, called "The Moon," received special attention from those in front. It was written and composed by the company's talented pianist, Mr. Strachey.

Grahame Doncaster came in for a fine reception with his ever good singing. He sang "Glorious Devon" and then, to loud shouts of "The Stoker," he came on and won more appreciation.

To say more about Salisbury is almost superfluous. He is the quaintest of the "Quaints" and gains a laugh even before he opens his mouth.

The Quaints will repeat their program tonight and it is as good as all its predecessors. Tomorrow there will be a complete change.

from the Government. Such a system should be rectified as soon as possible.

REVISE SUBSIDY RULES

"The revision of the present system does not mean the abolition of subsidy. I only mean to say that greater aid in fact, instead of merely in name, should be given to the shipping companies. For instance, the necessary aid may be given in the name of payment for the carrying of mails and in the supply of some money for the construction of ships.

"It is also necessary that the unnecessarily severe restrictions on the movements of the companies assisted by the Government should be abolished. Again, this does not mean the severing of all connections between the Government and the shipping companies.

"All the necessary arrangements, however, cannot be made unless a fundamental shipping policy of the country is defined and I would like to call the attention of intelligent men to the one chief necessity, that of co-operation between the government and the people in establishing the all-important policy."

1919 Steam Roller Claim Is Settled

An application by the plaintiffs in the case of T. Ah Yue vs. The Great Eastern Company, for the payment of $2,000 and $350 which had been paid into Court, was heard in the British Supreme Court yesterday.

The judge pointed out that, as the defendants had no objection, the plaintiffs only needed to make a formal application for the moneys to be paid.

The original case was heard in the same Court in 1919, when plaintiff sued the defendants for moneys alleged to have been due to him as payment for a steam-roller supplied by him to the defendants. The plaintiff got judgment.

On application by the plaintiff, defendants paid into Court $2,000 and the plaintiff paid $350 as security for defendants' costs.

Alleged Breach Of Contract Case Before British Court

The case of Henry Yuen Chai, a Chinese versus The West End Estates, Limited, was heard by Judge Skinner Turner at the British Supreme Court yesterday.

Mr. L. K. Kentwell appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. P. W. Goldring for the defense.

PLAINTIFFS CLAIM

The statement of claims is as follows:

1.—By letter dated February 12, 1920, the plaintiff offered to lend to the defendant company through Mr. H. M. Cumine, its agent and director, who agreed by his letter of acceptance dated February 19, 1920, to borrow off the plaintiff on March 31, 1920, the sum of Shanghai Taels 55,000.00 with interest at the rate of 16 taels per mille per lunar month, and agreed to repay as follows; (a) Shanghai taels 10,000.00 at the end of the first year: (b) Shanghai taels 25,000.00 at the end of the second year, and the balance of Tls. 20,000.00 at the end of the third year.

2.—In course of the negotiation for the loan the said Cumine repeatedly stated to the plaintiff that the rentals from the property would be sufficient to cover payment of interest on the loan, and that he would at once furnish the plaintiff with a list of houses on the property and with particulars of rentals therefrom, and furthermore, that an additional house would be built on the property within three months from the date of the mortgage to ensure more rents.

3.—By letters dated February 19, 1920 and March 9, 1920, the plaintiff requested the said Cumine to furnish particulars of rentals from the said property and also for a list of houses built thereon.

4.—The said Cumine by letter dated March 19, 1920, not only wholly declined to furnish particulars regarding the property as agreed but also refused to carry out the contract.

5.—The plaintiff by letter dated March 19, 1920, notified the defendant of his willingness and readiness to perform according to the terms of defendant's letter of acceptance dated February 19, 1920, but the defendant wholly declined to act.

PARTICULARS

The difference in interest between the contract rate which is 16 taels per mille per lunar month and the rate allowed by plaintiff's bankers to the plaintiff, which is 5 taels per mille per lunar month, is 11 taels per mille per lunar month.

1.—T.10,000.00 at 11 taels per mille per lunar month for one year T.1,320.00.

2.—T.25,000.00 at 11 taels per mille per lunar month for 2 years T.6,600.00.

3.—T.20,000.00 at 11 taels per mille per lunar month for 3 years T.7,920.00.

4.—Commission at 1¼ per centum on T.55,000.00—T.687.50.

Grand Total—T.16,527.50.

STATEMENT OF DEFENSE

The following is the statement of defense:

1.—The defendant company admit paragraphs 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 of the statement of claim so far as the negotiations by letter are concerned and deny para. 2 thereof and the defendant company will at the trial of the action refer to the whole of the correspondence passing between the parties.

2.—The defendant company says that negotiations for the said loan were never completed in that the plaintiff imported a fresh condition by a letter dated the February 19th, 1920 and written by him to the said Cumine referred to in the statement of claim to which condition the defendant company could not accede. Such condition was that interest on the said loan should be sufficiently covered by the rental of the houses standing upon the property to be mortgaged to the plaintiff otherwise the amount of the proposed loan should be proportionately decreased.

3.—The estimated value of the security offered to the plaintiff which consists of land and houses in the French Settlement in Shanghai is Taels 85,000.00.

4. The defendant company says that the usual rate of interest on property of this nature in Shanghai is not more than 8 percent.

5. The defendant company says that the plaintiff was well aware at the time of the said negotiations that the money was urgently required for the purpose of paying off an existing mortgage on the property for the sum of $55,000 and owing to the tightness of the money market at or about the Chinese New Year endeavored to extort an improperly high rate of interest for his loan and that in any event the plaintiff's terms were harsh and unconscionable.

6. The plaintiff has not suffered damage as alleged or at all. The defendant company will object that the damage claimed is too remote.

Much of the evidence given this morning was in the nature of alleged proof of the points laid out in the statement of claim.

Mr. Chai was examined at length by both counsel and by the judge and described an interview he had with Mr. Cumine on February 12, when verbal terms were agreed on and Mr. Cumine drafted a letter which he (plaintiff) sent subsequently addressed to defendant firm. At the interview in question, Mr. Cumine said that someone else had offered money at a cheaper rate, but the amount and conditions were not satisfactory. Witness further stated that he was now receiving interest at the rate of 5 per mille per month on the money which, had it been lent to the defendant on the terms agreed, would have been bringing him 16 per mille per month.

Mr. Chung Chai, nephew of the last witness, also gave evidence.

The next witness was Mr. H. M. Cumine, who described himself as an Architect and Land Agent and a Director of the West End Estates Limited.

In 1916, he said, the defendant Company mortgaged property with Messrs. Sassoon for Tls. 155,000 and took out a second mortgage in 1917, the interest being at the rate of 10 per mille per month.

In July, 1919 Messrs. Sassoon called in the mortgage, which had been reduced considerably by subscriptions and purchase of property, the mortgage being then for Tls. 80,000 roughly. Mr. Chai knew of this fact.

The rental from the property would not have been sufficient to cover the interest demanded by Mr. Chai in the proposed loan, the respective amounts being Tls. 832 and 880.

Mr. Chai wanted him to have built another house on the property to make up the interest on the loan. He considered the interest demanded by Mr. Chai to be harsh.

RAINFALL HALTS SUNDAY'S GAME

Regulars And University Men Will Play Final Contest On Thursday

The baseball fans of Shanghai were much disappointed on Sunday when the game between the U. of C. Glee Club and Shanghai was postponed on account of rain.

There were several players out in uniform, and a handful of the most ardent fans on hand, when 'Doc' Downs made his appearance at the park.

The "Doc" cast his eyes heavenward several times, and then decided to call the game off until next Thursday, after the Glee Club boys are scheduled to return from Nanking, where they have gone to entertain the people of that city, with their snappy college songs and their Jazz Band.

A game is to be played tomorrow, weather permitting, between Shanghai and the U. S. Destroyer Lee. It is reported that the destroyer team is in pretty good shape.

Shanghai loses another one of its valuable men in Sammy Woods, who left for the interior Sunday night, to be gone for two months. He has been going fine around the second sack, hitting the ball regularly, and will be greatly missed in the regular lineup.

The Bolsheviki and the Regulars will play a practice game at the race course grounds today at 5 p.m.

Chief Bolshevik Dodge says his men are all in fine shape. He is so positive that his team is the stronger of the two that he is having their names engraved on the gold-plated safety razors, put up by himself, as prizes for the members of the winning team.

Best Field Of All Time For Our Open Championship

BY FRANCIS OUIMET

Now that Abe Mitchell is coming over for our open championship at Toledo, American golfers will have a greater interest than ever in this tournament. It will unquestionably bring together the best field that has ever competed for the United States title, and as there are many great players already scheduled to play, the outcome is quite uncertain at this time. While we rest our fondest hopes on Walter Hagen, there are a dozen other home-breds capable of winning the crown, not to overlook a few of our amateurs.

The fact that Jerry Travers is making an effort to get back into form means much to American golf. Should Jerry strike his stride and appear at Toledo in his old form, he will be one competitor who will require a lot of beating.

Travers has the tournament experience to help him through the long grind of a 72-hole medal affair and in addition, the nerve and temperament. He will be a splendid bulwark for American golf in the matter of turning back the English invasion.

One reads little of Chick Evans these days. But any golfer of his few years and splendid record is by no means a back number. Chick has all the shots in the bag down to perfection and has lost none of his cunning. I learned that in our battle at Oakmont last summer. That was either man's game all the way through. Chick labored under a big handicap last season, packing around with him both the amateur and open titles. I doubt if golf will ever see a man win both of then again.

Then there are Davy Herron and Bobby Jones, both holding back at the present time but sawing wood and working at all times to smooth what are already nearly perfect games. Should Herron play in the open and set anything like the pace he maintained all through the amateur last summer it would take the best golf of Mitchell, Vardon, Ray or Hagen to beat him. No amateur ever set a more consistent clip than did Herron throughout every match he played at Oakmont.

It stands to reason that when one is capable of such steadiness his golf is to be reckoned with in any company at any time. True, Herron has his eyes on the amateur, where the chances are better for success than in the open, but I would feel more comfortable about our triumph at Toledo were this magnificent player among the defenders. He has everything necessary to win and, as previously set down, seems to possess the rare quality of consistency, a most priceless asset.

Young Bobby Jones has come along with such rapid strides that predictions are unnecessary in his case. Jones, to my mind, is a sure amateur champion of the future. He has been too near the top in his few starts not to break through one of these fine days. Jones represents a somewhat new type of golfer in America—one who began the game as a mere boy. Naturally, such players have a slight advantage in the long run over those made in later life, of which Walter J. Travis will always stand as the finest example.

For one thing these youngsters have a natural form that rarely goes back on them. Their success depends upon concentration and tournament experience. Jones has been getting the latter in abundance for one of his few years. I look for him to come to the front at any time, and I sincerely hope that he starts at Toledo. We need our best golfers for the task there. Every hope of the American golfing field should be at the starting tee when the big event begins.

It is remarkable how many young golfers are forging to the front. Last year brought a dozen to Pittsburgh, all capable of putting out a former title holder. This year will see more of the same sort of thing. Already evidence of it has been brought to our attention by the splendid game played by H. Davis 3d of Hill School, who recently captured the interscholastic title.

Praises Japanese Baseball Players

Nipponese Proficiency Lauded By Manager Of Chicago University Team

At a farewell dinner given in honor of the Chicago University Baseball team during their recent tour of Japan at the invitation of the Waseda University and the Taisho Nichi Nichi, Professor Melville, who was in charge of the visitors, strongly emphasised in his speech the proficiency that had been attained in baseball throughout Japan, and laid stress on the respect that his men had for the ability of the teams that they had been up against.

It is, of course, customary for persons managing teams to speak in flattering terms of the prowess of their opponents. They are not always sincere, but in this case, as Professor Melville had at one time been a professor at Waseda University himself, it is safe to assume that his praise was of a deservedly genuine character. It was certainly a feather in the cap of Japanese sporting circles to have the honor of beating the Americans at all, for although there is a great gulf between American professional and college teams, they were nevertheless a team to be respected, and at times played very strong ball. Winning 10 games, losing 4 and drawing 1.

Chicago made a creditable performance, but in making an unbiassed comparison of the marits of the teams the laurels fall to Japan for being able to put up such formidable teams against one from the "land of baseball," in such a comparatively short span of years.

Fresh From the Ovens—

New Post Toasties represent the most appetizing form in which choice, nutritious Indian corn has ever been prepared.

A new patented process which includes rotary toasting under quick, intense heat gives these flakes a delicious new and distinctive flavour.

The New Toasties are featured by the bubbly appearance of the surface of the flakes—due to this new art of toasting which releases the wonderful new and attractive true corn taste.

New Post Toasties are not "chaffy" in the package; and they don't mush down when milk or cream is added like common "corn flakes."

Lawn Bowls

(BY "SKIP")

There was great disappointment on Sunday when that heavy rainstorm arrived just before 4 o'clock and put an end to all prospects of play. It was quite a sight to see Lawn Bowlers dashing to all parts of the Settlement in motor cars only to find upon arrival that there was nothing doing. However another date will be arranged, probably on a Saturday before the season closes.

Saturday's International provided plenty of sport and good humor and some really good bowling was seen at times but what struck the writer most was the absence of "Pear Shapes" amongst the Scots. I don't know what the reason can be unless it is that porridge and haggis "preserves but does not fatten." Everyone was merry and bright after the match and claimed it to be the best game of the season, especially the winners and they showed their appreciation with quite the right "spirit."

Talking about Internationals, what has become of that noble crowd of local bowlers that departed for home in the spring with visions of challenging Scotland or parts of it? Surely they must have got together by this time. No news is good news, so perhaps they have met and defeated such small places as Edinburgh, Perth, Glasgow and Dundee and are waiting to settle with all Scotland before cabling the good news. Amongst the teams were Messrs. O. Crewe Read, A. A. Malcolm, J. J. Sheridan, R. J. Bowerman, also J. C. Macdougal, A. D. Bell, C M. Bain. W. N. C. Allen, and B Simmons.

SHANGHAI CHAMPIONSHIPS

All the games in the open Championships are up to date every match being finished to time. This must constitute a record for Shanghai. In the singles 3rd round Stormes beat Wootten, Bloom beat Dorrance, Allan beat David, Marks beat Blazot, Dunlop beat Campbell, Smyth beat Munro, Manwaring beat Anderson and Richards beat Alb Tayor.

In the pairs 3rd round A. Taylor and F. Ferrier beat Jones and H. Veitch, Grieve and Dorrance beat Harborne and A. W. McCallum, Campbell and Ross Young beat Stormes and Shaw and Aitkenhead and McMurdo beat Disselduff and Banham. The above thus qualify for the semi-final.

The Rinks semi-final resulted in a win for G. L. Campbell's rink over D. McAlister's rink, and G. B. Stormes rink over Arch Taylor's rink. The last match was most exciting, the score being level at the 20th end, Stormes getting the winning shot with his last wood. The score finished 20/19.

On July 12, according to this report, Triapitzin and seven other chieftains were executed. The authority in the city passed over to the revolutionary staff, with Andreeff at its head.

The revolutionary staff has issued an announcement acknowledging the superiority of the Far Eastern Republic, with its capital at Verdne-Udinsk.

HARRIMAN LINE IN SEA MERGER

Takes Over All Trade Routes Of Hamburg-American Co.; Ships To Fly U. S. Flag

HUGE FLEET TO BE BUILT

Chandler And Co. And American Ship And Commerce Co. Join In 20-Year Agreement

(Note: Following are details of a story that was briefly cabled at the time of its announcement)

New York, June 6.—American merchant vessels flying the American flag will soon sail the trade routes of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company as the result of an agreement made at the request of the United States Shipping Board between W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., and the German shipping concern. The Harriman shipping interests, of which W. A. Harriman, a son of the late Edward H. Harriman, is the head, have expanded rapidly in the last three years and embrace not only going concerns but up-to-date shipyards. They have agreed to supply enough tonnage to sail all the seven seas and make the Harriman Line, as was the old Hamburg-American, the greatest in the world.

In a statement issued yesterday it was explained that the new arrangement was between Harriman and Co., Chandler and Co., and the American Ship and Commerce Corporation on the one hand and the Hamburg-American Line on the other, and had resulted in the Harriman interests securing a substantial block of stock in the American Ship and Commerce Company, of which W. A. Harriman has been elected President to succeed General George W. Goethals, resigned.

Chandler and Co. and W. A. Harriman and Co. laid emphasis on the fact that all of the ships owned by their affiliated companies fly the American flag and are owned by American corporations in which there is no German interest direct or indirect.

100,000 SHARES OF STOCK

The American Ship and Commerce Company for more than a year has through one of its subsidiary companies been running a freight service from New York to Hamburg, acting in the United States agents for the Hamburg American Company and using the latter as its agents in Germany. Chandler and Co., Inc., brought about the organisation of the American Ship and Commerce Company and under the present agreement the Harriman interests have promised to turn over to Chandler and Co. the agreement they hold with the Hamburg American interests.

Together, Chandler and Co. and the Harriman shipping interests have obtained from the American Ship and Commerce Company 100,000 shares of the company's stock at $25 a share and an option to buy within ninety days a similar amount at the same price.

Only a few years ago the Harriman shipping interests consisted of the Merchants Shipbuilding Corporation, the Chester Shipbuilding Company and the Independent Steamship Company. Early in 1919 they obtained a valuable block of stock in the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company, which had been owned by the Mexican Government, and more recently acquired the stock holdings in the company of the Lord Cowdray interests in England. Control was also secured of a large collier tonnage.

But the specific announcement that the Harriman interests were going to supply the tonnage for reopening the Hamburg-American trade routes had not been expected. The affiliation of Chandler and Co., Inc., and the American Ship and Commerce Company in the new arrangement, on the other hand, was not considered a surprising as the retired President of the company, General Goethals, was one of the high bidders for German tonnage when the United States Shipping Board offered the German boats for sale.

The announcement, which was made jointly yesterday by Chandler and Co., Inc., and W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., follows:

"Chandler and Co., Inc., and W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc. announce that at a Directors meeting just held W. A. Harriman was elected President of American Ship and Commerce in place of General George W. Goethals, and Messrs. W. A. Harriman, S. F. Pryor and Lester H. Monks, representing W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., were duly elected Directors.

"For many weeks W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., at the request and suggestion of several members of the United States Shipping Board, have been in active negotiation with the Hamburg-American Steamship Company officials now in this country.

AGREEMENT RUNS 20 YEARS

"Subject to agreement on minor details, an agreement has been signed whereby, for a period of at least twenty years, the Harriman interests have agreed to supply sufficient tonnage, flying the American flag, to promptly reopen the most important of the old Hamburg-American trade routes and eventually many more of them. In this connection it is interesting to recall that before the great war Hamburg-American was the largest steamship company in the world.

"Upon learning that an agreement had been reached between W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., and the Hamburg-American Steamship Company, Chandler and Co., Inc., who originally conceived the American Ship and Commerce Company, and W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., deemed the best solution of the problem to be not to disturb the initial service already established between New York and Hamburg. Consequently W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., have secured through Chandler and Co., Inc., by public and private purchases a substantial block of American Ship and Commerce stock.

"W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., have agreed to turn over to American Ship and Commerce without consideration their agreement with Hamburg-American in whole or in part as may be deemed advisable. This agreement is of great value today and has tremendous possibilities in the future.

NO GERMANS INTERESTED

"The Directors of American Ship and Commerce duly accepted an offer made jointly by Chandler and Co., Inc., and W. A. Harriman and Co., Inc., for 100,000 shares of American Ship and Commerce now held unissued in its treasury at $25 per share, and gave them an option good for ninety days on an additional 100,000 at the same price.

"Inasmuch as either directly or indirectly American Ship and Commerce has on hand some $12,000,000 which is available for the purchase of ships or available for new construction, and with the fresh money added by the sale of treasury stock, American Ship and Commerce will not need additional financing for some time. American Ship and Commerce holdings of Cramp Shipbuilding and Engine Company has in no way been disturbed."

Further details regarding the nature of the agreement probably will be made public within the next few weeks.

DOES YOUR CHILD SUFFER FROM THEM?

Many children in this country are troubled with worms, some of the indications of which are irregular appetite, bad breath, grinding of the teeth in sleep, pain and swelling of the abdomen, irritation in the nose. Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, given for a few days destroy worms, and a marked improvement in appetite and general health follows.

"I would like to make known to all mothers the great value of Baby's Own Tablets," writes Mrs. J. R. Baker, of Lower West Jeddore, N. S., Canada. "My little girl, four months of age, was badly troubled with worms, and I did not appear to be able to get anything to help her permanently until I began using Baby's Own Tablets. She then improved almost at once, and I can sincerely say that they are all they are claimed to be and I would not be without them in the house."

Guaranteed free from opiates and absolutely harmless even to the youngest infant, Baby's Own Tablets are a remedy for indigestion, constipation, simple fever, diarrhoea and teething troubles. They are obtainable from chemists, also at 60 cents the vial post free from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

GERMAN CAPITAL FOR ONE BIG UNION

Chiefs Of Hansa League Prepare To Resist Demands Of Labor

INFLUENCES GOVERNMENT

Would Eventually Abolish Public Control Of Industry And Works' Councils

New York, June 15.—With the avowed object of presenting a united front to the increasing demands of the German labor organisations and at the same time showing enough strength to make themselves a power in influencing the German Government, some hundreds of the leading business men of Germany, at a meeting held in the old Prussian House of Lords Building in Berlin on May 8 decided to launch an appeal to all German employers to unite in a sort of "Employers' Trade Union."

This meeting was held subsequent to a general meeting of the Hansa League, a powerful German industrial and commercial organisation, and was addressed by Privy Councillor Riesser, President of the Hansa League, and Dr. Kohler, a prominent business expert. Both speakers insisted that it was absolutely necessary in the interest of saving Germany from economic and political ruin to bring together the various employers' organisations in one solid body, and thus make articulate the some 5,000,000 Germans classed as employers of labor. General condemnation of the Government's attempts to control industry was voiced and it was asserted that ultimately free trade and free industrial development must be restored, although a certain amount of Governmental interference would have to be endured during the transitional period, especially in the matter of foreign trade.

According to an account of the meeting found in the Koinische Zeitung, the ideals of those present seemed to be the abolition of the new Works Councils and of all laws tending toward ultimate socialisation of industry, and the restoration of the old law of supply and demand in the goods and labor markets, with an improvement in working conditions and reasonable increases in wages where justified by the high cost of living. In emphasising the need for organisation, Dr. Kohler said that, following the demands made by the trade unions in connection with the calling off of the general strike which killed the Kapp reactionary near-revolt, the employers also wanted to present some demands, but were not able to gain an audience with President Ebert. The Under Secretary with whom they talked "very properly" asked them whom they represented and what power was behind them.

What looked like a quick manifestation of activity by the officers of the new organisation was noted in a Berlin report of May 22 telling how the German Employers' League, through its Executive Committee, had issued a solemn warning to unionists and employers that further increases in wages should not be countenanced, as they would merely give the cost of production another boost, whereas the only way to end the vicious circle of rising prices and wages was to increase production, thus lowering prices and making wage raises unnecessary.

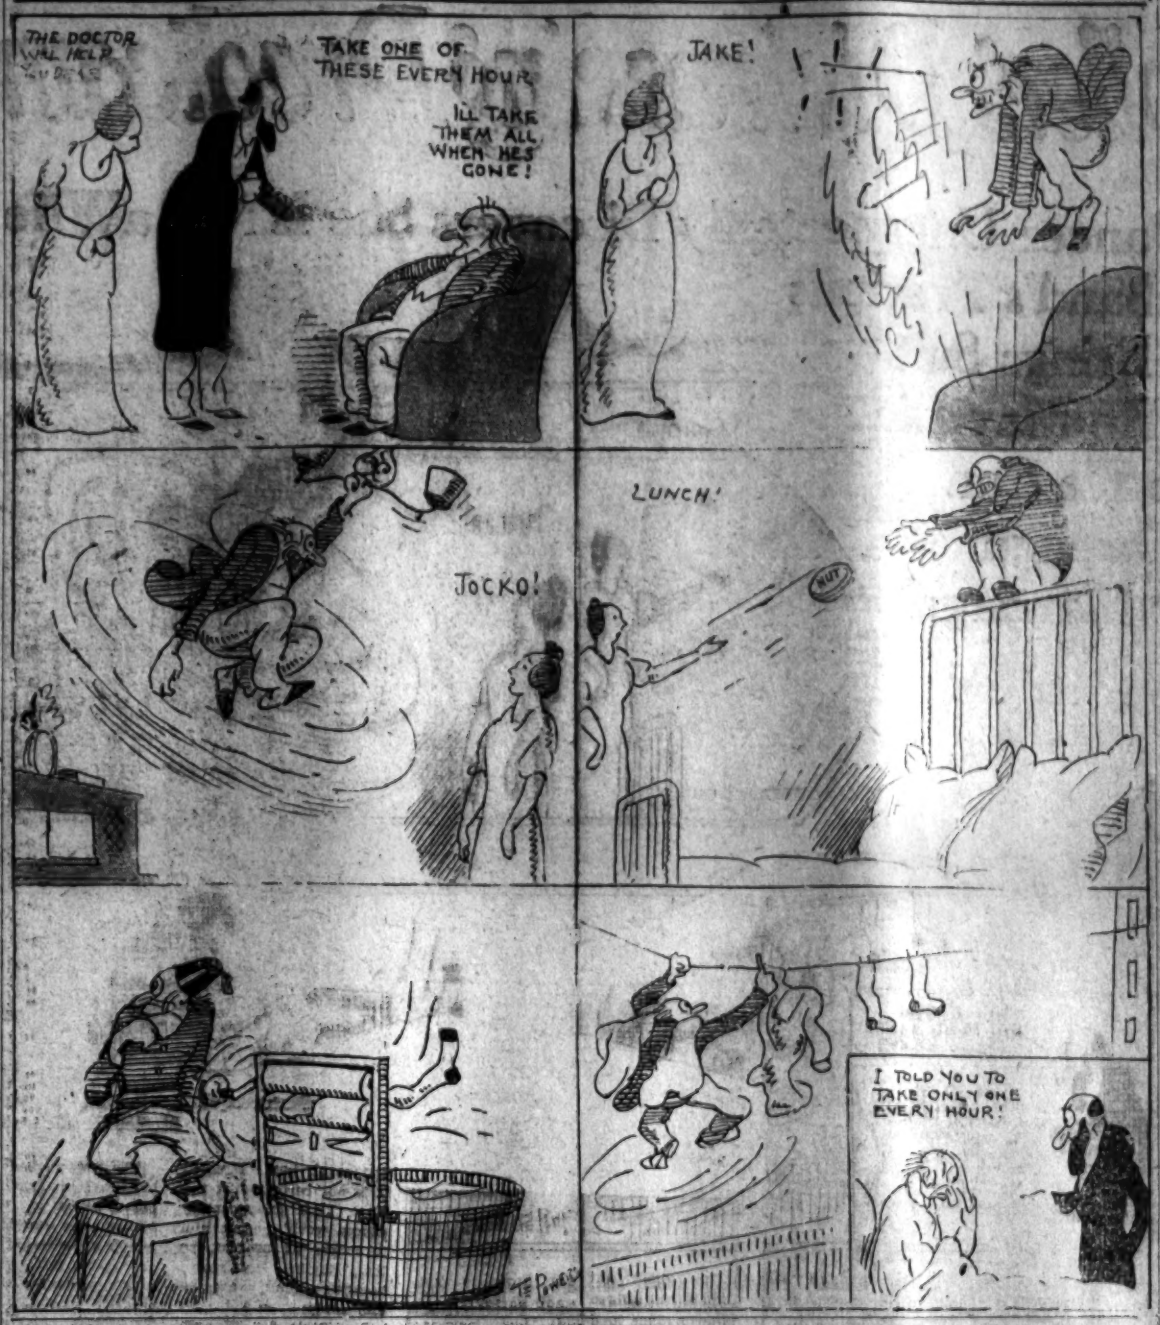

When there came a slackening in the demand for manufactured goods a few weeks ago, largely because of the high prices, some of the German manufacturers asserted that there would soon have to be cuts in wages in order to keep the factories running and avert a crisis. In an effort to prove this standpoint absolutely unwarranted the Leipziger Volkszeitung of May 12 ran a table giving the enormous profits and the high dividends enjoyed by a number of German manufacturing concerns during 1919. The leader of this group was the North German Wool Combing and Worsted Mill of Bremen, which was about to pay a dividend in cash of 12 percent, as well as a stock dividend of 11,250,000 marks, amounting to 50 percent of the capital stock. The big dye-making companies, constituting the Dye-stuffs Trust, paid 14 to 18 percent, against 12 in 1918; the German Arms and Munition Works paid 30, the same as the year before; the German Vacuum Oil Company paid 20, against 10; the Paradise Bed factory paid 30, against 6; the Flohs Tulle Factory in Chemnitz paid 20, against 10; the Brunswick Boiler and Gasometer Company paid 28, against 9; the Tecklenborg Dockyard Company paid 18, against 10, and a company making baby carriages and wicker furniture paid 22, against 12 in 1918.

South German sugar refining companies are preparing for an active season through calling for the investment of many millions of marks in their new stock issues, reports the Frankfurter Zeitung of May 8. Both the Baden Sugar Manufacturing Company of Waghausel and the Frankenthal Sugar Mill are practically to double their capitalisation, bringing each one's stock up to 27,600,000 marks; the Stuttgart Sugar Mill has raised its capital from 10,560,000 to 16,560,000 marks and is urging the organisation of some sort of a sugar trust, and the Heilbronn Sugar Mill is raising its stock by 7,040,000 to 11,040,000 marks. With the exception of the Frankenthal company, these concerns paid dividends for 1919 ranging from 10 to 18 percent. A recent report from London told of attempts being made to interest English capital in the financing of German beet sugar production with a view to heavy imports.

During the first quarter of this year, according to data compiled by the Frankfurter Zeitung, 681 German companies came forward with plans to increase their capitalisation by 1,888,500,000 marks. The new capital called for in March, despite the halt caused by the Kapp reactionary coup d'etat, amount to 629,500,000 marks, of which banks asked for 63,800,000, mining and smelting companies for 130,000,000, metal and machinery manufacturers for 147,550,000 and textile concerns for 31,800,000.

The strike movement among the bank employes of Germany, which early in May seemed about to involve all the financial institutions, appears to have been brought to an end, according to reports in German papers of May 13, through a compromise, under which both the two unions of employes and the National Association of Bank Managers, uniform wage scale for all Germany, allowed local settlements which brought the cashiers, tellers, et al. back to their desks. In Cologne the employes got an increase of 30 percent, and in other cities similar arrangements were made. The German papers remark, however, that no real peace has been assured, as the bank workers' unions simply realised that the time for a general strike was inopportune and for that reason accepted the compromise offers as a means of obtaining a truce. The Frankfurter Zeitung, one of the leading business newspapers in Germany, points out that the bank clerks, aware through intimate acquaintance with the books of the big profits made by their employers, were naturally spurred on to demand big increases in wages and that it would be desirable for the Directors to practice a little economy "at the top."

Helen Moller's Distressing Predicament

The Daring Dancer Unexpectedly Discovers She Is Not a Wife When Her Husband's Previous Wife Brings Suit--- and He May Die Before He Can Go Through Another Marriage!

IT was the afternoon of February 26, two years ago. The curtain of the great Metropolitan Opera House in New York rose slowly to the languorous strains of the great Metropolitan orchestra. Helen Moller's Greek dancers, her pupils in her rhythmic dancing classes, were giving a demonstration of classical aesthetic dances.

As the programme continued the dancing became more diverting, more enchanting. Finally the stage went dark. A brilliant calcium light was focused on one spot in the centre of the stage. Out of the surrounding darkness and into the spotlight whirled Helen Moller herself.

The great audience looked, and looked again.

Was it possible? Was the brilliant red diaphanous scarf twined about her neck the only adornment the dancer was wearing?

Surprise, disgust and curiosity were reflected in the various exclamations of the astounded spectators which swept the great auditorium. But one man sat spellbound in adoration—he was Robert Alfred Poole, a very wealthy English engineer with large business interests in America.

Mr. Poole had met Helen Moller, but he had never seen her dance until this moment.

The other day from the New York courts came an unexpected echo of the shocking exhibition in the great Metropolitan Opera House of two years ago.

Mrs. Robert Alfred Poole, it appears, had sued Mr. Poole for divorce, and the evidence produced by the wealthy Englishman's wife once more threw a vivid spotlight on Helen Moller. Helen Moller's relations with Mr. Poole were the grounds upon which the judge gave Mrs. Poole her divorce.

And yet Helen Moller believes herself to be the wife of Mr. Poole.

The divorce proceedings reveal an astonishing situation. Helen Moller is left at this moment in the distressing situation of a woman who thought she was a wife but, because of legal, technicalities, turns out to have been no wife at all.

Helen Moller for the last two years has lived with her multi-millionaire lover supposing she was his legal wife. And a baby has been born, who now has no recognized standing at law as the legitimate son or heir of Mr. Poole.

And to still further complicate the distressing dilemma of Helen Moller it develops that Mr. Poole is dying of consumption abroad and it is doubtful whether it will be possible for Helen Moller to secure passports and join her husband, even in time for a deathbed marriage.

And if death intervenes to prevent Mr. Poole from correcting, so far as he can, the present matrimonial mess by remarriage, what becomes of the great dancer and her infant son?

Mrs. Edna W. Poole is the woman who turns out to have been the unquestionable wife of Robert W. Poole. Only the other day Mrs. Edna Poole brought suit against Poole, stating that she was his wife, asking for a divorce and naming Helen Moller as co-respondent. The divorce has already been granted her.

Mrs. Edna Poole is a New Yorker and was married to Poole in London in 1898. Her suit against Poole was undefended and she obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce in Nyack, N. Y., before the public knew the action had been started. In explaining the extraordinary circumstances, her lawyer said:

"Divorce proceedings were begun between Mr. and Mrs. Poole in Italy several years ago, and apparently Mr. Poole thought the matter settled. But Mrs. Poole came home, and said she feared if she married again there might be some question as to the binding force of the Italian decree in this country.

"This office investigated and found some technical defects in the Italian proceedings—the service did not conform to American law. Therefore we advised that this proceeding should be brought. Mr. Poole was served by publication at Monte Carlo.

"We believe that Miss Moller believed herself to be Mr. Poole's wife. Our information is that a marriage ceremony, either religious or civil, was performed, but we did not check it up beyond a certain point, because we were not legally interested in that phase of the matter."

Mr. Robert Alfred Poole and Friend, from Snapshot Photograph Taken on the Riviera.

While the divorce was still a fresh subject of gossip and wonder, there came the additional news that Mr. Poole was gravely ill in England. These events leave Helen Moller in a most distressing predicament. Some of her friends believe that she is preparing to abandon her affairs here, to close up her various temples of the dance, and with her little son join Mr. Poole in England, where she expects to go through another marriage ceremony. Even this, it is said, would not legitimatize the little boy and an act of adoption might be necessary. What is the status of this child whom his father has never seen and may never see?

Evidently the new marriage cannot take place if Mr. Poole should die before she can reach him. Further, it is not certain that the New York interlocutory decree would permit him to marry at present, or that English law would recognize him as a properly divorced man.

Mr. Poole fell ill soon after his arrival in London, almost a year ago, and was found to be suffering from tuberculosis. He went to Monte Carlo and the Riviera for treatment, and after a long stay there improved considerably. He then returned to London and fell ill again. He is now in a sanitarium there and, according to latest information, is in a desperate condition.

He has not been fully informed concerning the terrible predicament in which his wife has been placed, and it would probably be impossible or dangerous to trouble him about it. He may have understood that she would be placed in a difficult position when the divorce suit by his first wife was notified to him, but then again, in his grave illness he may not have realized all her difficulties. One misfortune after another has thus happened to add to the tragic predicament of the fair dancer.

Helen Moller has been hailed as a high priestess of the idea that one could throw off one's troubles by throwing off one's clothes. Perhaps her philosophy will help her now.

The tangled romance of this couple has been filled with surprising incidents from the time Miss Moller gave such a remarkably frank display of herself in her Greek dances at the Metropolitan Opera House down to the present moment.

Miss Moller's exhibition at the time was widely commented on. Many critics attacked it, while a few defended it. Police Commissioner Enright solemnly declared that he would look into the matter and if there were any objectionable features he would have them removed.

The first result of criticism was that the Metropolitan Opera House cancelled a proposed series of displays there by Miss Moller. She then transferred them to that temple of refined art, Carnegie Hall, where she wore more draperies.

One spectator who found nothing to criticize was Mr. Robert Alfred Poole. The Greek ideal of untrammelled limbs and healthy skin exposed to the purifying air, of free, rhythmic, natural gambolling filled him with joy and happiness. He fell in love with Greek dancing—and the Greek-American dancer. Everybody supposed he was free to fall in love.

Mr. Poole, or Commander Poole, as he is often called, is an interesting young man of English origin and long residence in Italy, who made an immense fortune during the war as an exporter of war necessities to Italy. He is president of the Mediterranean Trading Company at No. 29 Broadway. He is also president of a real estate company at Mount Kisco, where he invested a little of his wealth. He enjoys the rank of commander or "Commanditore" in the Italian navy, given by the King of Italy for his services during the war.

Commander Poole became an assiduous and fervent worshipper at the great Temple of the Dance, which Miss Moller maintained at Madison avenue and Sixty-fifth street. Here she taught big and little girls of all ages to discard tight clothes and indulge in what she termed the ennobling, inspiring, energizing, rejuvenating and educating movements of the Greek dance.

She had presided over several dancing establishments since she breezed into New York from Minnesota five years ago, but this temple indicated an opulence, a success, an investment of capital far beyond anything she had directed before.

It was in the Autumn of the year of Helen Moller's Metropolitan display that the surprising news that she had married Commander Poole leaked out. Not a word had been said to any of the romantic young couple's numerous friends and acquaintances concerning the ceremony. Not a single invitation was issued, as far as can be learned, and this was surprising, for they both had a wide circle of friends in artistic and bohemian society.

Even now that another woman challenges her position as Commander Poole's wife, Helen Moller declines to give any particulars as to when or where they were married. She says that it is nobody's concern, and that under the distressing circumstances and in the absence of Commander Poole she does not care to speak of it.

It was through the transfer of a hundred-and-thirty-acre estate at Mount Kisco, N. Y., that the news of Helen Moller's marriage became public. The property, situated in one of the most aristocratic residence sections around New York, was acquired by her in order to establish a "Sylvan Temple of the Greek Dance."

In the papers connected with the transfer she gave her name as Mrs. Robert A. Poole. In reply to inquiries, she explained she had married Mr. Poole in the Spring, about the time of her sensational performance.

They lived happily together and in about a year Mrs. Poole presented her husband with a little boy, who received the name of Robert A. Poole, Jr. Mr. Poole was compelled by his business to travel about the world a great deal. Thus it happened that he went abroad before the birth of his son, and while in Europe fell seriously ill. There he now lies in a critical condition.

Beautiful American Princess To Wed Britisher

Princess Olga Hassan, formerly Miss Olga Humphrey, of San Francisco, whose marriage several years ago to Prince Ibraham Hassan, then cousin to the Khedive of Egypt, gave her a chance to occupy Cleopatra's throne, is to become the bride of an untitled Englishman, according to a report from London. Her life with the Prince was short but turbulent. She left him six months after their marriage and later sued for divorce. The war interrupted proceedings and his death freed her before the case was disposed of. The British Government, which seized the Prince's estate when the Khedive and his family fled from Egypt, awarded her $1,000,000 for her share. The Princess is to wed Captain John Henry Broadwood, a member of a distinguished Surrey family. The Princess is a daughter of the late Thomas Humphrey, of San Francisco. On her return to this country following her separation from the Prince she spoke feelingly on the subject of marriage between Oriental and Occidental nations.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filing with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

The People---The Master

(By T. I. Tung, A Student at St. John's University)

THE Civil war is near its climax. The Anfu collapse seems to be complete. We have the statistics of both the contending factions before us; we have seen what each has done; and now is the time for us to take a more than neutral—but impartial—attitude towards the situation.

Throughout the strife, there have been vociferous denunciations and anathemas pouring upon the heads of the warring gangs; there have been subsidised press organs which clamorously lay the whole blame on the opposing party; while the sober, "respectable," business and civilian population, which hates any war, shakes its head despondently and remarks that the present strife will only result in the displacement of one military gang by another in the political arena of China.

However, there is a minority, among whom the students occupy a prominent place, that throws the weight of its opinion on the Chihli side, the latter being indebted mostly to the presence of Wu Pei-fu in its ranks for this favor.

The other day, we read that the Civil Governor of Chihli has released unconditionally the students held in Tientsin, with a view to swinging public opinion to his side. But whatever may be the success of this and other actions to achieve the contemplated moral effect, it seems that we are right when we say that, of the two, the Chihli victory is more desirable.

Wu Pei-fu is a soldier of blameless record and has so far served his country well. Of Tsao Kun this much cannot be said; and for the genuineness of his adherence to the principles which he professes, none can at present stand sponsor. Chang Tso-lin is a well-known agent of the Japanese but in the present struggle, nothing has been unearthed which shows that he has derived aid from that source. On the other hand, the black records of the Anfu Club need no recounting. Through their hands, "the Japanese have done most of their business in China." The Chihli men though guilty of other crimes, are at least exempted from the damnable deed of mortgaging their country. The merits which we claim for them are negative, but not positive; are relative, but not absolute.

But the service of Tsao Kun and his associates on behalf of the people would amount to nil should he fail to keep the promise that he made at the beginning of the conflict, viz., that "when Tuan is absolutely deprived of his military power Tsao himself would retire and apologise to the public for taking up arms against the traitor of the nation."

The main disease of China is militarism which forms the root of other troubles. And only force—military force—can suppress militarism. The students and the public have tried other means and failed. But this military remedy has one bad effect; in due course it itself becomes the evil, and so the vicious circle has been maintained always at work. If Tsao and his colleagues could or would stop this vicious circle, by withdrawing the remedy applied as soon as it has achieved its purpose, great would be his service and greater our gratitude. Not only we of this country but all free peoples of the world would hail him as the Lincoln of the Far East, emancipator of a great race from the yoke of military oppression.

The fate of China is at stake. The present coup may either make the turning point of the political history if our Republic or it may simply mean "a change of dynasty," according as the Chihli generals choose to render the people an invaluable service by way of self-sacrifice on their part or to remain in ignoble power.

Dr. Willoughby is right when he suggests as a remedy for our present plight the subordination of the military under the civil administration—a statement which is reiterated by General Li Shun and other Chihliates. Then and only then can China come to itself, and the people assume its rightful place as the master of the whole—the administration and the public servants, civil and military alike. The people's voice can then make itself heard and interpreted in the right light. With united hearts the Government and the people can work hand in hand to guide the nation into safe waters.

Hitherto the supremeness of the public has been partly responsible for the supreme power which the Anfu Club usurped for itself and which it so long wielded to the detriment of the nation. If the public had with foresight wisely imposed checks on the actions of this political clique, it would have saved for itself much "flesh and blood," and much trouble in pulling it down. This at least should teach us a lesson.

The myth of monarchical restoration was in the air for some time, but now, we think, it has become apparent that this is no part of the Chihli group's intention. There is, however, a class of ultra-conservative, reactionary, ex-officials of the Manchurian House, styling themselves "the remnant elders," (most of whom are in the Settlement here according to rumor) who are always fanning the dying embers of the hope of the Manchurian clan. They are patriots of the old school who subordinate loyalty to their Nation to loyalty to their former master. And in this it is needless to say they err. The People is the master and when it dismisses a servant for deliquency and wickedness, none should attempt to revoke the order. To them we could only say: "Deceive not yourselves with phantoms and dreams. The good old monarchical days are gone, gone forever!"

Have faith, fellow-citizens! China will not be long governed by these politico-military factions, much less by an imperial emperor, provided that you will so exert yourselves as to bring your influence to bear upon the administration and conduct of the Government. You can decide which side is right and which wrong, and none shall gainsay your decision. You can, if you will, take up arms against any traitor, and none shall censure your action. China is yours. It is up to you to determine her destiny.

Dear Domino: This morning at 3:15 my Muse awakened me and perched (or sat?) herself on the foot of my bed and began "shooting doggerel" at me. ### ALL FROM OHIO

William Jennings Bryan won't stand as Prohibitionist Candidate for the Presidential Office. He thinks his platform is too weak and needs a little more spirit to make it strong. Aaron S. Watkins will try to capture the electors instead. So now American will have Cox, Harding and Watkins all of Ohio.

I've heard a lot of Romeo,

But now I know, what State we owe

POPE AND THE LADIES

In 1744 died Alexander Pope, the English poet, who as a child "Lisped in numbers and the numbers came." He was a great observer of the fair sex and liked lots of them at different times but being sadly deformed the ladies did not like him. He found consolation in writing verse, polished verse, satirical verse and sometimes stinging verse. He had a good deal to say about the daughters of Eve. In the light of recent events, as seen in the correspondence columns, note these extracts:

Think not when woman's transient breath is fled,
That all her vanities at once are dead,
Succeeding vanities she still regards. .....
Now LAPDOGS give themselves the rousing shake,
And sleepless lovers just at twelve awake .....
Here files of pins extend their shining rows
Puffs, powders, patches, Bibles. billet-doux.

And when she sees a mouse today she only does what her mother did before her.

Then flashed the living lightning from her eyes,
And screams of horror rend the affrighted skies,
Not louder shrieks to pitying heaven are cast
When husbands or when lapdogs breathe their last, .....

There was rejoicing among the community when in the "Bringing up of Father," Jiggs managed to come in late, and thanks to the cat, was able to get into bed without an interview with Maggie. ### WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

And that reminds me:
Maggie complains that Father discourses

Says its wonderful to see
How thoroughly their tastes agree—
For, that his wife, as well as he,
Most dearly loves a nag.

Air Observer's Luck

American Airman, Who Later Made A Name, Tells Frankly Of His Early Misadventures In Flying

So many war books have been called "a real contribution to history" that one gets rather wary about using that term even in description of a book that in all essentials seems to fill the requirements of the phrase. Yet Major Elmer Haslett's "Luck on the Wing," published by Dutton, is not a historical volume. It is simply an amazing recountal of an unusually adventuresome and fortunate observer's experiences in the Air Service during the war.

William Mitchell, Brigadier General of the United States Army, has written an introduction to the book in which he says:

"Major Haslett was more than an observer; he was a student of air operations. He was among the first of the American officers to prove that low flying over German trenches was not only possible, but was a method of effective attack for airplanes. At the time that he was shot down he was engaged in working out the problems of adjustment of artillery fire on moving targets by airplanes—a question of prime importance in warfare of movement.

"This officer during the course of his service at the front not only contributed exceptionally distinguished personal service over the lines and as an operations officer but he also contributed ideas and suggestions of considerable value in development of air tactics and air strategy, and as I have mentioned before he had the proud record of successfully executing every mission which he undertook during his entire service at the front, with the single exception of the mission he was on when he was shot down by superior enemy forces."

The story of Major Haslett's first trip over the lines is an exceedingly amusing one. The American squadron had been with the French for a month but had not been allowed to take part in a single mission. The men were getting impatient. Major Haslett, who was then a Lieutenant, anxious to miss nothing of the big fight, finally approached the French commander and, using the argument that it would look suspicious if it were reported that the American airmen had been allowed to remain idle for a month, succeeded in gaining permission to accompany the next mission. A mission, be it known, consists of a pilot and an observer who are sent out to get the location of the enemy's lines and signal them to their own. The next mission was to take place the day after.

A "GREEN'S" TERRORS

"The night was chilly as the devil and as I picked my way in the darkness I could hear very plainly the rumble of guns and could see the artillery flashes very clearly, although the front was twenty kilometers away. I began to think about my first trip over the lines that was soon to come. I was mentally lower than a snake. I hadn't prayed for some time and I was just wondering whether or not I would pray that night. My solemn idea of prayer was that it was an emergency measure. I was always reverently thankful to the Maker for His blessings, but He knew that for He must have known my mind. 'I believed that God helped him who helped himself, but when the question was too big for man to control, then it was the time to involve the help of the Supreme Being. I was inclined to think this case was only a duty of war in which man should help himself. So I had decided that I would go ahead and handle it as a man to man proposition, reserving invocation for a more serious situation, but as I was getting pretty close to my billet I heard a sudden noise that gave me a real thrill, a big cat jumped out of a box and ran directly in front of me. It was too dark, of course, to tell the color of that cat, but the condition of my mind convinced me that it could be no other color than black and that it was an omen that bad luck was sure in my way. When that cat ran in front of me my man theory was gone, absolutely; I knew quite well that I was going to pray.

"This trip was a complete surprise because I understood from my meager instructions that even crossing the line the enemy anti-aircraft artillery, commonly called 'the archies,' would certainly open fire, but everything was calm and peaceful—except my mind. I looked at my map to find where the panels were displayed. Panels are large, horizontal strips of cloth which are placed on the ground in various symbols near the battery and are used as a means of communication between the battery and the airplane. The airplane communicates with the battery largely by means of radio telegraphy, but it was not practicable to receive the radio signals in the plane from the ground, so we used these panels. Among the signals formed by these white panels, which are quite clearly discernible from the air, are those meaning that the 'Battery is ready to fire,' 'Battery has fired,' 'Fire by salvo,' 'Change target,' and many, many others, including the signal 'There is an enemy plane near you,' which is the most dreaded panel that can be displayed. I might incidentally mention that there is another panel which means 'There is no further need of you; you can go home.' Now this may not have a great deal of significance to the average layman, but I'll say that when the sky spy has been tossed about for a couple of hours on the archie billows he joins the union which says it is the greatest little panel of the panel alphabet.

"So, in a few minutes I picked up the location of the panels, and I had a little chart on my map board showing the meaning of these many panels. I had had some instruction upon them while at observation school, but I depended on crossing the bridge only upon arrival thereat, so I did not pay a great deal of attention to them. The descriptive chart on my map board interpreted the panels in French, so I was not sure that the chart would do me any good after all, for my knowledge of technical or any other kind of French was less than meager. I saw the panel 'Battery is ready,' and then the plane headed toward the lines, and in a moment the panel changed to 'Battery has fired,' so I looked over into Hunland, but I could not find where the shells had hit. In my mind they were hitting everywhere, so how could I tell which were those that Jones was directing. In a moment I again saw 'Battery is ready,' and again I looked directly toward the supposed target. In a moment I saw four shells strike real close by, and my vigilance was rewarded, for I was to witness an actual adjustment of artillery fire against a real enemy. Then I took a genuine interest in the adjustment and paid very close attention to every detail. In fact, I was so attentive that I was oblivious to the fact that my mission was to protect the leading plane.

A CALMER MIND

"Delving into this new game, I indulged in certain psychological conclusions which took my mind off of the thing that had been troubling me, namely, the unpeaceful condition of my mind. This was most interesting. They had fired about six or seven salvos, and were coming very near to the target, which was a cross-road. I thought it must be a wonderful observer, to guide the battery with such unfailing accuracy, and I looked forward to the time when I, too, might be a genuine sky spy and with American batteries seek out the enemy and destroy him, for after all was the aerial observer not the bravest man of the army—the spy—for his greatest mission was to find out the intentions of the enemy, and if he succeeded in bringing back the information without being seen all would be well, and if he was seen it meant he had to fight for his life—at times, he, too, lived within the lines of the enemy.

"This was the gist of my thoughts, when I suddenly looked down at the panels and saw a huge 'Y' displayed. I did not pay much attention to the 'Y,' but I saw Jones taking a steep spiral toward the earth. I did not call the attention of my pilot to it, because I thought 'Y' was something usual, meaning, perhaps, that the signals were not understood, so Jones was going down low to get closer to the battery, in order that his wireless could be heard; but Jones kept going right on down near the battery, and finally kept circling around close by at about 300 feet altitude. I looked around and did not pay any great heed; I thought Jones would soon climb up again. In a few moments I saw the battery take in their 'Y' and put it out again; take it in and put it out, as if to attract my attention.

"Then I saw them running back and forth with different panels in different directions, which had a sort of cinema effect. Then they brought out double panels and made a great, huge 'Y.' Then I thought 'Y' must mean something, if they were making all that fuss about it, so I thought 'Y'—'Y'—'Y'—'Y'. It was a memory test for me. I felt I should remember some of these panels, and here was the chance to think clear and quick. I went through the various fake memory courses I had taken, and tried in every way to determine the meaning of 'Y', so, after trying to figure it out by the law of association, the law of likeness of sound, the law of impress and five other such hopeless laws, I began to regret that I had payed so much for that memory course. Then I casually took out my map chart to find out what 'Y' meant. As I ran slowly down the list of signals I came to 'Y' and looking across it I saw 'Attention!' 'Ennemi avion pres de vous,' which in English means 'Look out! Enemy plane close to you.'

"I thought I did not know French, but I certainly acquired it with the speed of lightning. I dropped my map board like a shot, jumped up in my cockpit, grabbed my machine guns, released the swinging tourrelle, and, whether I knew anything about that tourrelle or not, I threw it around three times in a complete circle of three hundred and sixty degrees without stopping—I was bent on getting anything that came near me. I stopped—looked frantically at the pilot, expecting to find him dead. He had turned around to find out what the trouble was about. I did nothing but gave him a sickly smile, for I had nothing else to give him. They had a signal commonly used among sky spies to describe a cross with the forefinger and point when the observer saw a German plane, but this was among the thousand things I had not learned about aerial observation. So, he went on, straight flying; just aimlessly drifting on.

SEVEN AIRPLANES ABOVE

"I gradually calmed myself and looked into the sky above me, and I saw seven airplanes which were hidden from the pilot on account of the wing above him. I was quite sure from the lectures I had had in America from instructors who had never been at the front that one can easily distinguish an enemy airplane by the huge black cross that is painted all over it, and so I skimmed my eyes over them, trying to discern the cross. I could not, and yet the airplanes stayed about six hundred meters above me and kept on circling around. I decided that I was being duped and that there was some one under my tail, so I hung my anatomy over the fuselage, and after a hasty examination I was convinced that the only airplanes in that sky, except our own, were the seven above me, and Jones, who was way down by the battery still circling around. I looked down at the panels, and they were still frantically waving that 'Y'; and, peering at the planes above me, I saw that they were still circling around. I did not know what to do. In fact, I did not do anything for fully thirty seconds, except to watch those planes, but they did not make any sudden maneuvers or show any inclination to attack.

"I looked down again, and they were still putting out that big 'Y', and my pilot was just floating along as if nothing had ever happened; in fact, he had never seen the panels and was not paying any attention, having undoubtedly an abundance of confidence in the ability of the American observer, and as I could not disappoint his splendid judgment in my ability I just used my perfectly splendid logic and decided that if they were German planes they certainly would have attacked me before this time, and since they had not attacked they could be no other than French; and the solution was that the battery had probably received notice from the squadron commander that there was a new observer up and so they were undoubtedly flashing this 'Y' trying to play a joke on me, believing that I would run home, and thinking, perhaps, that I had not seen Jones go down in his rapid spiral. So, I just decided to show them that they could not fox me, and I just stayed up there floating around. After I had stayed up there for about fifteen minutes Jones pulled out for home, and when I saw him shoot off in that direction I decided that perhaps the signal had been changed and 'Y' meant that 'there is no further need for you,' and that they were just trying to attract my attention so that we would start home. I decided I would not show any more ignorance than I had, and would say nothing of the incident.

"So we went home and I felt pretty good that I was in sight of the airdrome again and still alive and that nothing unusual had happened after all. Jones got there about five minutes ahead of me. Meanwhile the battery had called up the squadron and told them that the observer in that second plane was either the bravest man they had ever seen or the biggest idiot, that he had stayed up there daring seven Germans to attack him singlehanded, while they had toiled feverishly for fifteen minutes with 'Y's' and duobio 'Y's' trying to give him warning, and that his utter disregard of their signals had so unnerved the crew that 50 percent would be sick for a week. So, of course, the entire flying personnel, including Adjutants, Sergeants, Corporals, Lieutenants and Aspirants (Cadets), were there, as well as the Capitaine to meet and greet us. Jones, of course, had gotten out and also told them about our narrow escape from the seven Huns, and you can imagine the excitement and ejaculating of a bunch of Frenchmen when anything so preposterous as this should happen, especially with a new American who as yet was untried in valor on the battlefields of France.

"It was manifest destiny, for I found that the reason those German planes did not attack when they had me cold was that one of the aerial tactics in vogue at that time was to send one plane low as I was, with a strong pursuit patrol high in the clouds above, so that when the enemy attacks the lower plane the pursuit planes high above could dive on the enemy, thus having the great advantage of position, speed and surprise. The seven Huns thought I was a dupe. I was, but not the kind they thought. Mine was a case of ultra-distilled beginner's luck."

$300 A WEEK TRAPPING

Fortunes are being made in the little Island of Tasmania by trappers, according to a communication to The London Daily Mail. These trappers supply to a market that used to look to America and Siberia skins of the humble rabbit, wallaby, kangaroo and opossum. Inexperienced trappers make $125 a week and the old hands as high as $300.

"One of the leading fur exporters of Hobart assures me that this sum is a fair average with many of his customers," says the correspondent. "As I was speaking to him he wrote a check for £1,200—the proceeds from skins trapped during three months by two brothers in the far western forests.

"The trappers are sought after. Caravans go out into the bush for weeks buying up skins. Before the war landowners were glad to have trappers to keep down the game that devastated their 'runs,' but skins have now become so valuable that they let the trapping rights for big rentals, and there are many applicants. The State Government has followed their lead in respect to Crown lands. Options are now help for two seasons ahead over the best trapping country."

Bringing Up Father — By George McManus

New Birth-Rate Theory

Weather Believed To Have Decided Influence, Heat Being Favorable Factor

BY CATHERINE GROTH

Paris, June 9.—Amazing revelations as to the influence of the weather on the birthrate have been made in Paris by Dr. A. Magelessen, noted physician and biologist. His conclusions are stirring up much controversy as they are in direct opposition to theories hiterto accepted.

"The decrease in the birthrate is not due to immorality or love of luxury, but to changes in the weather," says Dr. Magelssen. "For the last thirty years or so the temperature of Western Europe has been steadily falling and one of the consequences has been the diminution in births which is troubling both legislators and moralists.

"While everything must be done to provide better housing facilities, better maternity hospitals, etc., to encourage large families, scientists must study the relationship between atmospheric factors and the human body, so as to be able to draw conclusions applicable to social conditions.

EFFECTS MAY BE PERMANENT

"Variations in temperature may have immediate effects—as in the case of colds, sunstrokes, etc.—but their influence is generally far more subtle, though no less intense. The chemical changes produced in cells and glands by extremes of heat and cold, for instance, are frequently of a permanent nature and may even affect an entire generation, decreasing or increasing fertility.

"Of course the temperature is only one of the atmospherical factors that influence the body, but it has been recorded longer than any other and more statistics are, therefore, available for research. But numerous other elements in the weather, such as rainfall, dryness, etc., have an equally great influence.

"It is perfectly possible by means of new scientific methods to study the cumulative effect of the temperature on the human organism. For such purposes the temperature is registered according to the extremes of heat or cold, these being more active biologically than average temperatures.

"Researches conducted for more than twenty years show that a high temperature, as compared to the normal for the locality studied, produces a birthrate, a low temperature a low birthrate. From meteorological and vital statistics from Paris, Berlin and Vienna—the only cities that have adequate data for such investigations—it appears that a cold Winter produces a decrease in the birthrate, while if the cold of the Winter months is counteracted by a particularly warm Summer, or by an unusually warm July or August, the birthrate is improved.

"Aside from the loss of men due to the war, the birthrate in France today shows the effects of the persistent coolness of recent years. Statistics now indicate that the temperature is rising, and the result will soon be found in an increase in the population's fertility.

"Instead of blaming women or morals in general for the lack of children, legislators and economists would do well in asking science to turn its attention to the climate for an explanation of biological phenomena."

Garrett P. Serviss's Article

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Eminent Astronomer and Writer on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

"I have a boy who will soon be eight years old. For his age he is a good mathematician, and loves figures. I was reading him an article in which the statement was made that the star Capella was 300,000 light-years from us, and that if our own sun was 10,000 light-years away we could not see it with the most powerful telescope. He immediately asked me how much larger Capella was than our sun. I told him I would have to ask you. He knows the size of our sun, our planets, the time it takes them to go around the sun, etc. Another question: If Mercury is only 3,000 miles in diameter and is 1-18 the size of the earth, how is this figured? What I want to know is how to figure the increasing diameter in regard to size.—R. D. B."

The statement you quote about the distance of the star Capella is erroneous, or exaggerated. It is probable that Capella's distance does not exceed 40 light-years. But 40 light-years are about 2,500,000 times the earth's distance from our sun, and if the sun were 40 light-years distant its light would be diminished inversely as the square of 2,500,000 to 1—i. e., it would be only 1-6,250,000,000,000th as bright to our eyes as it now appears. But photometric measures show that Capella gives us about 1-40,000,000,000th as much light as the sun does.

In order, then, to compare the real brightness of Capella with that of the sun (supposing them at equal distances from us) it is only necessary to divide 6,250,000,000,000 by 40,000,000,000, the quotient, 156¼, representing the number of times that Capella exceeds the sun in brightness.

HOW LIGHT DIMINISHES

In these calculations it is necessary to keep in mind the fact that light diminishes inversely as the square of the distance, i. e., if the distance is increased 10 times, take the square of 10, which is 100, and turn it upside down, or use it as a fraction. It then represents 1-100th of the light at the original, or unit, distance.

If the sun were one light-year away, its brightness would be diminished to about 1-4,000,000,000th of its present amount, but it would still appear to us ten times as bright as Capella. If it were removed to a distance of about five light-years it would shine as a typical first-magnitude star, about as bright as Altair.

At fifty light-years it would be barely visible to the naked eye on a clear night, as a sixth-magnitude star. At 500 light-years it would only equal in 11th magnitude star; at 5,000 light-years, a 16th magnitude star, and at 50,000 light-years it would sink to the 21st magnitude, being then, perhaps, just glimpsible with the monster 100inch telescope recently set to work on Mt. Wilson.

A light-year, you may wish to know, is about 68,000 times the earth's distance from the sun. Squaring 68,000 and taking the result inversely gives the fraction to which the sun's light would be diminished by removing it to the distance of one light-year.

In regard to determining the relative sizes of the planets, it is only necessary to apply a well-known geometrical rule, which is that the volume, or size-in-bulk, of a solid, such as a ball, varies as the cube of its diameter.

HOW TO FIGURE SIZES

To obtain the cube of a number you multiply it twice by itself. Consider a room whose length width and height are all represented by the same number of feet. Then, to obtain the area of the floor you square that number, or multiply it once by itself. Thus you get the number of square feet in the floor. Multiplying once more by the original number you get the cubic feet in the entire space, or volume of the room.

Applying the rule to two planets whose respective volumes are to be compared, it is only necessary to cube their diameters and dividing the larger product by the smaller you will have the ratio of their volumes or sizes.

If we call the earth's diameter 8,000 miles and Mercury's 8,000, the respective cubes are 512,000,000,000 and 27,000,000,000, and their ratio 19 to 1, very nearly. But if we take more accurate figures, we shall get nearer a ratio of 18 to 1. Thus, call the earth's diameter 7,918 miles and Mercury's 3,022 miles. To avoid long multiplications, let us first divide 7,918 by 3,022, getting for quotient, after throwing away all but the first two figures of the decimal, 2.62. Cubing this we have 17.9847, very close to 18, as the ratio of the earth's volume to Mercury's volume, which in this calculation is represented by unity, or 1.

When the densities of two planets are the same their volumes correspond with their respective masses, or weights, on which their force of gravitation depends. But in reality, it never happens that the densities are the same. Mercury was once supposed to be much more dense than the earth but the later view is that the earth's density is the greater, thus giving it an advantage in gravitational energy additional to that which it owes to its larger volume. In fact, while the earth is about 18 times larger than Mercury, it is at least 21 times heavier and stronger.

Bobbie And His Pa

BY WILLIAM F. KIRK

Pa was talking awful Deep last nite, Ma sed eether he was gitting smarter or he was a little Flitey with a feever or sumthing. He was talking about the stars & eternity etc.

How did you cum to git on that subjeck tonite, sed Ma.

I guess beekaus it was my birthday, sed Pa. Forty-three today, sed Pa, & a ripe old age it is.

You are silly to speck thus, sed Ma. A man is only beeginning to live at forty-three. My father was 86 wen he went to his hevvenly reward, sed Ma. Jest twist pure age, sed Ma.

Maybe he was twist my age, sed Pa, but I lived moar in five yeers than yure old gent lived in his whole 86 years, sed Pa. Talk about stepping, sed Pa. wow! Pa sed.

That is a poor line of talk in front of our Robert, sed Ma.

He mite as well know it now, sed Pa. Our Robert will be a grown man one of these days & I want him to know which he is going to step out into, sed Pa.

He will find out enuff hisself, sed Ma. & it isent going to be the saim ruff wurld that it was in yure yunger days. We are gitting moar sensibul & civil-ized with the passing yeers, sed Ma.

I wonder if we reely are, sed Pa, or if human nater isent about the saim thru the rolling centuries.

We are gitting better, sed Ma. I can see sines of it everyware. One of the worst eevils is gone now, we shall git after others.

Do you know what is the moast gratest eevil in this here wudld? sed Pa. Greed, sed Pa. Greed, wich is short for hoggish-ness.

That, too, will be cured in time, sed Ma. The strong will give to the weak, sed Ma.

Do you reely think so? sed Pa.

I do, sed Ma. The strong will git things & they will hand what they git to the weak.

It seems to me the strong is always handing it to the weak sed Pa. The weak is wobbling & reddy to taik the count, sed Pa. I got a touch of it today, Pa sed, 85 beans for a suit that used to cost 30 beens, sed Pa.

You can stand it pritty well, sed Ma, but think of the poor working men.

Thare aint any such animile any moar, sed Pa. Working men is the lords of ereashun now. A bricklayer maiks moar than a bard & has steddier work, sed Pa, & a carpenter maiks moar than a chemist & a blacksmith maiks about ten (10) times as much as a follower of Blackstone, sed Pa, wich is my way of saying a attorney at Law, Pa sed. The professhuns is gitting a kick in the shins, sed Pa, & the trades is triumf-ing.

Well, sed Ma, a milyun yeers from now what differns will it maik?

First Watches Made Big As Soup Plates

Timepiece Of Charles V. Weighed 27 Pounds—Sultan's Gold Watch 5 Inches

The first watches ever made were as big as soup-plates and as heavy as they were cumbersome.

The Emperor Charles V., for instance, had one which weighed twenty-seven pounds.

The watches of that day were very much like ordinary clocks. They were cylindrical in shape, finely chased, and had a hinged lid on one side to expose the dial.

A costly and elaborate watch was made for Sulton Abdul-Medjid by Messrs Hart and Son of Cornhillin 1844. It was made of 22 carat gold and was five inches in diameter.

It chimed the hours and quarters, but was without a bell, the striking parts being made up of wires.

It possessed a powerful and resonant tone, was exceptionally harmonious and sounded like a cathedral clock. Twelve hundred guineas was its cost.

ROMANCE BLIGHTED

English Officials Sent Miss Lillian Moody Home

New York, June 6.—The steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria now in the service of the Cunard Line and the Red Star line Lapland, both from English ports, arrived yesterday bringing each their quota of passengers. On the Lapland came Miss Lillian Moody of Painesville, Ohio, whose stay in England was cut short by the authorities and who failed to marry the man she went over seas to marry.

Miss Moody lived until her departure in Patchin Place, a little one-block street nestling under the shadow of Jefferson Market Court. Her romance began when she fell in love with Archibald Key of Hubblefield, England. His ideas are radical and it was said that he was a member of the Communist Party. Key shipped as a seaman in January and in that way traveled back to his native land.

When Miss Moody decided to leave Greenwich Village she obtained her passport and they were vised by the British Consular officer here. According to her story two agents of the Department of Justice were on the same boat which took her over seas. She was sure they had searched her baggage. She charged that they notified Scotland Yard that she was soon to arrive in England.

When the Carmania reached Liverpool, she said, she was greeted by a delegation from the Yard, and it was suggested that England was not a very good place and that she had better return to America. That suggestion was a command and so she came home. Miss Moody told her friends on her arrival that she had been treated with courtesy, but that what made her angry was that she was not allowed to land and marry.

ITALY'S TRADE IMPROVING

Current Year Shows Increased Exports And Diminished Imports

Rome, June 5.—Mario Abbiate, Minister of Commerce, has cabed to Professor B. D. Attolico, Italian Commissioner-General for Financial and Economic Affairs in the United States, a statement of Italy's economic situation as compared with that of last year. The statement says:

"Italy's foreign trade figures during the first four months of 1920, as compared with the same period of the preceding year, indicate an improvement in her trade balance of 2,213,000,000 lire. Imports diminished 1,120,000,000 lire, while exports increased 1,085,000,000 lire.

"Treasury receipts for the current fiscal year, as compared with the fiscal year 1918-19, show an increase of 1,229,000,000 lire. Exchange has shown signs of steady improvement. The tendency of price index numbers to the end of April indicated an increase. Beginning with May, there was evidence of a slight decrease in prices, the permanence of which it is impossible to foresee for the present.

"In the industrial field there is noted a resumption of the total business with the opening of several hotels at Bologna, Florence, Naples, Genoa, Milan, Venice, Leghorn, Palermo and other cities.

"During the month of May labor agitations decidedly decreased and in the labor organizations were noted elements in favor of greater production and more intense work."
